About the Festival

The Rocky Mountain Women's Film Festival (RMWFF), well-known and respected worldwide, is the longest running women's film festival in North America. A diverse mix of documentary features, shorts and narratives, makes the Festival one of Colorado Springs' cultural treasures. Women filmmakers from around the world attend and participate in after-film Q&As and two Filmmakers' Forums.

WHY SUPPORT?

Simply put, the Rocky Mountain Women's Film Festival brings the best in documentary film, both by and/or about women, to Colorado Springs. Your support allows us to present diverse and intellectually challenging films to create ongoing conversation in our community about the world and the important stories of those often unheard or unseen.

RMWFF audiences love our sponsors! Your support keeps ticket prices low and lets us invite more filmmakers to attend the Festival each year. Sponsor support also underwrites the Festival in the Community, which offers free screenings just prior to the Festival and the Youth Outreach Program, with screenings and filmmaker discussions for at-risk youth. Your sponsorship ensures that the Rocky Mountain Women's Film Festival and its programs continue for decades to come, ensuring these experiences for future generations.
